Using Offline Access with S/MIME encrypted and signed messages

EMC SourceOne Offline Access can be used to open and view email messages encrypted and digitally signed by Outlook mail clients using the S/MIME (Secure/Multipurpose Internet Mail Extensions) protocol. S/MIME is a protocol that adds digital signatures and encryption to MIME messages as described in RFC 1521.

Consider the following:

- Messages digitally signed and encrypted using S/MIME that were shortcut by EMC SourceOne Email Management can be opened and viewed using Offline Access.
- Other Non-S/MIME types of encryption are not supported with Offline Access.
- Digital signing is not supported with Offline Access.

Note

When using Microsoft Outlook Delegate Access, a delegated user will require access to the delegator's signed certificate to access any encrypted and digitally signed messages.

Display settings

For the best display of the icons in the Tools › Options › EMC SourceOne tab of Outlook on Microsoft Windows, set the Color Quality to 32-bit by using the Control Panel › Display › Display Properties › Settings tab option.

Synchronizing computer clocks

Ensure that the clocks on Offline Access client computers are synchronized with servers; otherwise, errors can occur.
